AJF hiring Chief Executive Officer as organisation grows

The Alliance for Journalists' Freedom is recruiting a Chief Executive Officer, as the organisation expands.

Olivia Pirie-Griffiths, who has served as AJF's Executive Director for more than three years, is moving into a Chief of Staff role for both Junkee Media and Australian Geographic, under RACAT Group.

Olivia will stay on part-time at AJF in the important new role of Head of Policy as well as Company Secretary.

Olivia says:

"The last three years as AJF's Executive Director have been the best of my working life."

"I am thoroughly excited to be moving into the Chief of Staff role for the mastheads at RACAT, whilst remaining closely connected with the AJF."

"Over the past three years we've built an effective organisation. AJF strives for stronger legislative support to protect the function of journalism in Australia, and works to protect press freedom in the Asia-Pacific."

"As part of our evolution, as Head of Policy I will be able to focus on driving policy outcomes."

Peter Greste, AJF Director and Spokesperson, says:

"AJF has developed a significant suite of programs and partnerships under Olivia's leadership, and is now ready to expand."

"I'm also delighted that she'll be able to stay with us as Head of Policy and Company Secretary, and am looking forward to bringing in a new and formidable CEO to lead the organisation in the years ahead."

The new CEO role is currently advertised on Seek.
